HIGH-TOUCH INNOVATION SETS INSTITUTION APART

For Kansas State University, developing a one-of-a-kind family welcome center, complete with interactive technology platform, would surprise and delight visitors while remaining authentic to the university’s story.

After renovating an historic building and implementing CampusNexus® CRM, K-State was able to create an interactive technology platform in the newly dedicated Berney Family Welcome Center.

The result was this bright new space, with its massive, intelligent wall that integrates campus visit details (maintained in CampusNexus CRM) and presents this information back to students. Students interacting with the wall’s touchscreen can forge a digital path that reflects their unique interests and questions.

The video wall engagement is then extended to their mobile devices, which they can refer to for a schedule, map, or details about academic interests.

While analytics data on usage is still being compiled, the video wall has been well received by parents and students. Visitors have stated the experience is unlike any other they have had at other universities. The unique service is currently focused on prospective students, but the institution is considering adding a current student and career services/employer layer to it as well.

Kansas State University’s video wall is an outstanding innovation in student engagement, and Campus Management is pleased to recognize the university with the 2017 Excellence Award for Student Innovation.
